

Mr. Hafian Fuad, (Indonesia)

(hafianfuad@gmail.com)

I was born 22 years ago in a particular island in Indonesia, Bangka Belitung. Growing up in a remote island within one most prominent multicultural developing country like Indonesia, I always have a big passion to discover another parts of the world which I always believe can show me different kinds of people with different cultures.

Hafian Fuad, it is a given name from my lovely parents. People used to call me Fian. They said that it means a nice person. They really wish I could be someone spreading kindness and goodness to my surroundings. I currently live in Yogyakarta which is culturally really different from the place where I come from. That really shapes my understanding about open-minded thinking. I learnt a lot about Javanese ethics in Yogyakarta as it is historically one of the center of Javanese civilization. I would like to admit that I love the simplicity of the city of “Never Ending Asia” (Brand Mark of Yogyakarta). I love the hospitality of the people there. Everyone should try to go there. Trust me! ;)

I am currently studying English education at Yogyakarta State University (YSU). A university concerning in character education. Although I am a social humanities student, I am always really interested in science and some environmental issues. I love doing analysis in some social phenomenon especially in linguistics. I do love learning from everyone and everywhere. That is why I am joining some student organizations in campus like student association and student legislative board. Recently I am running my organization concerning about human resource development outside of the campus named CES (Center of Excellent Student). I am doing some research and social activities as well. I am Moslem. I am also doing some participating action in an Islamic Youth movement. I believe that by joining some organizations, social activities and youth movement I can give a definite contribution to my country.

Going abroad and participating in International events has always been my dream. It is a great pleasure being in YPA 6 for me since it is my first international debut. It incredibly boosts my motivation to contribute in making peace in the world. Let's blast guys!
