Problem Statement

Tashkent city is divided into two parts. The old town is currently facing destruction of old buildings while others are not well preserved. Furthermore, the modernization of the new town is also getting expanded and it may pose future urban challenges.

The young population does not recognize the importance of cultural heritage, and they want to modernize their buildings at the expense of destroying the ones that have been inherited from their parents and grandparents.

As a consequence, the lack of youth education on how to preserve old buildings will endanger the history of the country.

Objectives

- Save the cultural heritage in the city of Tashkent
- Educate youth on cultural importance
- Increase public awareness of heritage preservation
- Involve the government to take policy actions

Implementation

- Organize a one-day seminar on “Can I Save the Heritage of My Own Nation? Yes or No?” at the Tashkent State University of Economics.
- Involve university students, academia, government, and youth movements.
- Promote the event using social media channels

Long-Term plan

- As sustainability of this plan is important, we will repeat it every year and we are looking for more members to contribute in order to implement this plan.

Draft Agenda

- The first part of the seminar will start with an introduction of the main challenges the Tashkent city is currently facing in terms of cultural preservation, and several case studies will be illustrated.
- The second part of the seminar will involve discussion among youth and collecting their ideas to save the heritage.
- The duration of the seminar shall not be more than one day.

Expected Outcomes

- Increased awareness among the youth that saving the cultural heritage is saving the nation's history.
- Enhanced communication among students, youth movements and governments.
- Youth movements to spread the message

Fundraising

- Government
- Logistical support from Tashkent University of Economics and the University of World Economy and Diplomacy
- Private sectors
- Youth movements budget

Estimated Budget

- 200 USD for coffee breaks, meals, and promotion materials
