STOP STREET CHILDREN USING DRUGS AND PROVIDE HEALTH EDUCATION

Presented by: Raju Khatri

BACKGROUND:

The contemporary condition of street children in Nepal is very critical. Around 5,000 street children are working and living in the streets of Kathmandu. They are coming from rural areas of Nepal due to the poverty, conflict and abuse at home and ending up on the streets. Their health condition is completely vulnerable. Every year thousands of street children are dying in the absence of proper awareness programs, education programs for the consequences of using dope. They are homeless, utterly isolated, totally addicted to drugs. They feel like they fit nowhere at all and their mind and body is completely controlled by the substances. Most commonly they are using dendrite as their primary dope and many more other substances to run away from their reality. They prefer to have the dendrite instead of having food.
