I'm a junior student at Utsunomiya University and I'm in the faculty of International economy. But in 2012, I was a student of the Community college of Aizu in Fukushima Prefecture. My hometown is Fukushima. Then, I transferred into the third year of the present university, this year. The earthquake happened when I was entering the community college of Aizu.

I decided to go to the affected area first, then tried to find out what their needs were. So I visited Ishinomaki and met victims. I also interviewed with Fukushima Prefectural Hospital Bureau in order to hear health professions' opinions. I learnt from the people I met. So I took part in "Nikkei STOCK League" because this project that meets peoples needs in Fukushima and also uses the strength of our seminar.

After this project, I found out that indirect support to the affected area by social value oriented investment. And I noticed that I need interdisciplinary knowledge.
