Hi Universe, my name is Mochammad Bakhtiar Rifai - you can call me TIAR and I come from Indonesia. This is my 2nd year of study at University of Brawijaya and my major is International Relations. I really appreciate the Youth Peace Ambassadors International because I got a lot of practical experience in here and the most important is that we can learn how to make a good action plan for peace in our society.

In 2008, I joined the JENESYS -Japan East Asia Network of Exchange for Student and Youths Programme- That was my first international experience, and I learnt how to promote Indonesian culture and tourism in another country, especially in Japan.

And in 2012, I was joined the exchange programme with AIESEC SYSU (Sun Yat Sen University), Guangzhou, China, where I was an English teacher for elementary high school at Integrated Family Service Center of Xinhua Street. I was really excited to be a teacher there, because I could communicate with children, share many stories with them, and make them happy by playing many games.

And now, I'm standing here, at the Youth Peace Ambassadors International Programme to make peace to change the world. With small actions, we can make peace. One example is my action plan, where I will give education for the street children. As we know, the street children don't have money for get education, so I must help them to get the education. Why education? Because it is the most important in the world, and with education we can change the world.
