Problem Statement

An alarming number of children seem to experience pleasure in their media encounters with violent entertainment, express insatiable demands for more of the violent content ( Schwartz & Matzkin:117)

According to Dr. Kimberly S Young, assistant Professor of Psychology, University of Pittsburgh at Bradford, show that overuse of the internet can genuinely restrain teenagers' and children's experiences in life, their performances academically, overall happiness, and physiological well-being

Objectives

To provide children with various programs, tools, and millennium ways of education to ensure the telecommunication safety and education equality among children without discriminating and differentiating their backgrounds.

How did we get here?

We are moved by the factual conditions of children among nations who are abused by and misused the internet

This condition often leads to certain inappropriate conditions like early age puberty, physical abuse, bullying and etc.

We're amazed by the speed of telecommunication development and there is none of them are specifically concern for children

MOST IMPORTANTLY

Children are the voices, the ears, and the leaders of tomorrow so by providing them with the right platform means to save our future global generations
